Mammoth Solar's Application for Special Exception Reversed by Judge Kim Hall

On August 24, 2021, Judge Kim Hall, serving as special judge for the Pulaski Superior Court issued a decision reversing the Pulaski County Board of Zoning Appeals' approval of Mammoth Solar's application for special exception (the "Application").

The Application sought approval for Phase I of a large commercial solar development spanning 4,511 acres of agricultural farmland. Several neighboring property owners initiated a judicial review proceeding before Judge Hall in an effort that successfully reversed the BZA's approval of the application.

In reaching his decision, the Judge found that Mammoth Solar failed to comply with the application requirements of the Unified Development Ordinance ("UDO"). The existing application requirements of the UDO are in place to assure that any development and production of solar-generated electricity in Pulaski County is safe and effective, and the UDO has substantial requirements in place.

As the Judge noted, "[o]bviously, everyone would want full disclosure of all the solar project details required by the UDO to promote an open and informed debate as to the impact of a solar project over 4,511 acres, and whether the project would be safe for the community."

In reversing the approval of the Application, Judge Hall noted that, "[t]he BZA was required to act in accordance with the law and was not at liberty to ignore clearly defined legal procedures." As a result, Judge Hall reversed the approval of the Application, and remanded the matter back to the BZA. The Judge stated that, only after a complete application is provided by Mammoth Solar, can the matter proceed to public hearing.

The Petitioners are pleased with the Court's ruling. They have many additional concerns with the proposed commercial solar development. Those concerns include the impact on neighboring property values, the removal of valuable farmland from production, the destruction of the rural character of the area, and the inconsistency with the Pulaski County Comprehensive Plan, among other things.

Mammoth Solar's second application seeking an additional 4,700+ acres of farmland for solar energy generation is currently being appealed.
