HERE'S WHAT YOU MISSED in this week's PULASKI COUNTY JOURNAL

Indiana State Police in Fort Wayne remind drivers to prepare for seasonal hazards

Halloween, pumpkin spice, football, and combines in the field...fall is definitely upon us, but costume parties and football rivalries are not the only things for which we need to prepare. Falling leaves and colder temperatures are making their appearance as well. With these changes come driving hazards more unique to autumn than other times of the year.

According to the Institute of Highway Safety, autumn typically brings a sharp increase in the amount of car versus animal insurance claims, most of those being deer. These claims usually peak in the month of November and decrease through December and January. Wet leaves, colder temperatures, and an increase in rainfall also add to the mix.

The troopers at the Indiana State Police Fort Wayne Post would like to remind you of a few safe driving tips as you navigate the change in season on our Hoosier roadways:

- Wet leaves: Wet leaves can be as slippery as an ice-covered roadway. Drive slowly on leaf-covered roads and avoid hard braking. Also, don't forget that leaves can obscure lane and roadway markings, so make sure to pay attention to the edge of the roadway and stay in your lane.
- Rain and fog: Wet roads are slippery and may lead to hydroplaning. Increase your following distance, and don't use cruise control. If it's foggy, use your low beams or fog lights and avoid using high beams.
- Bridges and overpasses: Any roadway not in direct contact with the ground can freeze quickly. Morning frost can leave icy patches, and shaded areas may remain icy after other parts of the roadway are dry.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, there are approximately 1.5 million deer-vehicle collisions each year. According to insurance industry statistics, Indiana usually ranks in the middle of all 50 states and was 24th in 2021 in car versus animal crashes. In 2021, the odds for a car/animal crash were 1 in 100. West Virginia typically tops the charts with the odds at 1 in 37.

When it comes to our four-legged friends:

- Buckle up! Sudden stops from a collision or even hard braking are common causes of injury. Your seatbelt is the best protection to help prevent you or your passengers from being harmed.
- Watch for signs. Deer crossing signs are there for a reason. Use caution when you see these signs and remember that deer often travel in groups. If you see one, assume more are nearby. Don't forget to recruit your passengers to assist in looking for deer.
- Morning & evening commutes: Deer are active at dawn and dusk as they look for food. This time of year is also their mating season (the Rut), which is another reason they are more active.

• Don't swerve. If a crash is unavoidable, don't swerve to avoid hitting the deer. Not only could you swerve into the path of another car, but you could also lose control of your vehicle and possibly roll over. Brake firmly and stay in your lane. Studies show more serious crashes happen when we swerve to avoid an animal.

"I struck a deer, now what?" Unfortunately, even if you take all the above precautions, sometimes car/deer crashes are unavoidable.

If you do have a collision, remember to move your car off the roadway and call 911 or your nearest police agency. Typically, comprehensive insurance coverage will cover these crashes, so make sure you contact your insurance agent and, if possible, take photographs of your car and the animal.

Stay safe while driving this fall! Prepare for extra commute time in the mornings, wear your seatbelt, and pay attention to the "signs" of fall...and don't drive distracted!

HERE'S WHAT YOU MISSED in this week's PULASKI COUNTY JOURNAL

Winamac runners forge ahead to New Prairie

Saturday morning, at the Culver Academies cross-country regional, the competition was ramped up to another level. The Winamac girls' team and Kolbey Wegner passed the test with flying colors.

Wegner and Logan Fredel were the last two individuals from the Winamac boys' team. Wegner successfully navigated the course, finishing seventh and advancing to the New Prairie semi-state.

Fredel saw his season come to a close coming in 50th but has a promising future ahead.

The Winamac girls' finished fourth as a team, making it to the next round Saturday at New Prairie. The girls raced in a tight group, with Maggie Smith leading the Lady Warriors in 26th place. On her heels were Kadence Hoover (27th) and Kandace Kroft (28th) as the first group across the finish line. They were followed closely by Kelsey Wegner (31st) and Avery Wegner (32nd). Ariana Gualajara (42nd) and Claire Goodman (73rd) rounded out the scoring for the Lady Warriors.

The Winamac Lady Warriors cross-country team advanced to the New Prairie semi state after a fourth-place Saturday morning at the Culver Academy Regional. Team members are Kelsey Wegner, Avery Wegner, Maggie Smith, Kandace Kroft, Kadence Hoover, Claire Goodman and Ariana Gualajara.

Kolbey Wegner finished seventh overall Saturday at the Culver Academy Regional advancing to the New Prairie semi state.

Trojans race one final time at Chesterton Regional

The West Central boys' cross-county team raced at the Chesterton regional Saturday, finishing 10th, officially ending the season.

Valparaiso won the regional title in a competitive field, scoring 47 points, led by James Dillabaugh in first place and teammate Mason Nobles in second.

LaPorte was the runner-up with 60 points, followed by semi-state qualifiers Chesterton (70), Portage (84), and Rensselaer Central (129).

"Before the race, the message to the boys was to give our best effort regardless of the odds of advancing," said Trojans coach Jeremy Glasford. "The competition level is outstanding, and I felt we did a good job of representing ourselves and our school well with our team effort as we bowed out of the tournament. It's tough to end the season, but the kids checked off all the goal boxes we had for 2022. I'm very proud of all of them."

Jacobie Mills led the Trojans, placing 62nd overall. Also scoring for the Trojans were Drake Fritz (67th), Aiden Conley (70th), Josiah Rodriguez (75th), Hayden Fritz (77th), Maddox Gutwein (88th), and Conner Bunger (89th).
